Capt. George F. Titus was deposed as commander of the Detective Bureau vesterday and Sergeant James J. Langan of the Criminal Courts squad was made a captain and ordered to succeed him. A similar change was made in Brooklyn, where Capt Charles A. Formosa, who became a captain a few days ago will take Capt. James S. Reynolds's place.

Over both men, under the order which Gen. Greene issued yesterday, will be Borough Inspector Brooks. This is the order: First-In addition to his present duties

Capt. Titus first learned of his transfer from a reporter. "So Steve O'Brien didn't get it after all," was his only comment efore he began to pack up. Titus wasn't half as much disturbed by the change as some of his star sleuths. There is little doubt that many of them will be put back to patrol duty. Brooks knows that there is a lot of "doad wood" in the department—men who spend the time lounging about the Broadway hote and whose chief stock in trade is their repu-

It was pointed out that the new method of running the detective bureaus will be a great improvement in at least one re-spect. Heretofore, when a big crime was committed, there has frequently been fr tion between precinct captains and the head of the Detective Bureau. The precinct commanders were not subject orders, and there was no cooperation be-tween them. With an inspector in charge tween them. With an things will be different.

Langan's promotion was one of the first nings done by Gen. Greene yesterday morning. Two hours later he was assigned to duty in the Detective Bureau. He is 46 years old and was appointed a patrolman in 1878. He was assigned to the Central Office later and did detective duty under Langan's promotion pleased the men in his squad at the Criminal Courts Building. "It's just like a gift of $15,000," said one of them. "No man could, get a captaincy under Tammany for less than that. He's a poor man. He's lived up to his income and never made anything on the side. He could have been a captain before if he could have raised the cash.

Commissioner Greene, in addition to the changes in the Detective Bureau, made Ser-geant Dennis F. Ward of the Westchester quad a captain and sent him to command he Leonard street station to relieve acting Inspector O'Brien, who has been the Captain of that precinct in addition to his other dittles. PITTSBURG, Jan. 7 .- The worst railroad accident that has happened for some years in Pittsburg occurred at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Seven persons are dead and two others will probably die. The accident happened at Cochran station, near Duquesne, on the Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston Railway.

INTO PITTSBURG OR 'ROUND IT

WABASH HAS A 25-YEAR CON-TRACT WITH CARNEGIE CO.

If Pittsburg Doesn't Let It in It Will Have Valuable Property to Sell and Other Ways to Go for Its Freight Traffic -But the Road Expects to Get In.

There has been much speculation about the course the Wabash will adopt in view of the adverse decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which denied the company's right to enter Pit sburg city without the consent of the municipal authorities. President Joseph Ramsey of the Wabash disclosed yesterday that the Wabash has a twenty-five year contract, taking effect on the first day of operation with the Carnegie Steel Company to handle one-fourth of that concern's immense steel, ore and coke tonnage. When this contract was made two years ago, one of the controlling interests of the Carnegie Company said that the mere making of that contract put Wabash on an impregnable position in case difficulty in entering Pittsburg developed.

"The decision of the Supreme Court is by no means a surprise to us," said President Ramsey. "Its effect on our plans will not be of serious dimensions. The action of the court is the result of an appeal by the city of Pittsburg from the decision of the lower court, which upheld our contention that under the laws of the State we could enter any city thereof, subject only to police restrictions as to the crossing of streets and similar matters.
We have not rested idle while this matter was with the Supreme Court. We applied to the Common Council for permission to to the Common Council for permission to enter the city and it was granted. The matter then went to the Select Council which passed an ordinance granting us the right to enter the city, but on the condition that we elevate our tracks to a certain degree above the proposed tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad. I refused t ccept this ordinance as the requested ele vation seemed both unnecessary and im-practicable, since it called for grades that yould interfere with the economical and expeditious handling of both freight and passenger traffc.

"After consultation with our engineers

I suggested in place of the proposed ele-vation a lesser, but easily sufficient one to carry the tracks above those of the Pennsylvania, and the matter went back to the committee of the Select Council. The committee advocated the adoption of our compromise but it was determined to appoint a commission of engineers, one from the city of Pittsburg, one from the Pennsylvania and the third from the Wabash to 'arbitrate' the question of track elevation. This was done and the ena satisfactory ordinance granting us per mission to enter the city, is passed. Cerwe are not inclined to view the Supreme Court's decision with any alarm. "If it should come to pass that we were barred from the city of Pitisburg, we might well go around it. It is true that we have spent a good deal of money for terminals, but that property is worth much more to-day than when we bought it. It is also true that we have put a lot of money into piers and other material for our bridge over the Allegheny River and into the Mount Washington tunnel, but these would be particularly valuable to a trolley line, and in that direction easily utilized.

in that direction easily utilized.

"So while we have planned to spend some $5,000,000 to get into Pittsburg, our actual expenditures thus far would represent no loss if we failed to get in. As a matter fact we might actually be benefited by so failing.

"It is the immense freight traffic that we are after and that lies almost wholly outside the city. We made a contract two years ago with the Carnegie Steel Company, which provides that we are to receive one-fourth of all its tonnage for a period of twenty-five years from th date our road goes into operation. To secure this immense tonnage we need rather to enter Braddock, Homestead

McKeesport and other places than Pitts-burg proper and we will enter them.

"But we are not going to be kept out of Pittsburg if we can help it. We have made big plans there and we wish to carry them out. We want to enter Pittsburg and we feel confident that Pittsburg wants us there just as badly."

NOW LET THE TUNNEL GO ON Dock Commissioner Hawkes Has Consented After Scaring the Mayor.

It was thought that when the Aldermer sanctioned and the Mayor signed the Pennsylvania tunnel franchise the way was open for the company to go ahead and build its tubes.

Dock Commissioner Hawkes, however discovered that the franchise could not become operative without his consent. He told the members of the Sinking Fund Commission yesterday that under the law a franchise for a tunnel within a certain depth under the property under the jurisdiction of the Dock Department could not be granted without his consent.

For a few moments there was something approaching consternation on the part of the Mayor, the Comptroller and other members of the commission. They crowded around Mr. Hawkes in a body, while he displayed plans and explained the law.

Subsequently the Mayor called up the Corporation Counsel's office and apparently the information he obtained bore ou Mr. Hawkes's contention, because the Mayor as he came back from the telephone asked the Commissioner if he was prepared to give his consent.

"Oh, certainly," replied Mr. Hawkes and he signed a formal consent there and then.

PLANS FOR ANTI-TRUST BILL.

PRESIDENT CONFERRING WITH THE PARTY LEADERS.

Attempt to Agree on a Measure That Can Be Rushed Through Both Houses of Congress at This Session-Attorney-

General Knox's Suggestions the Basis. WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 .- Daily and hourly conferences between the Republican leaders n the Senate and House and President Roosevelt are being held for the purpose of getting together, if possible, upon a plan of anti-trust legislation to be enacted at the present session It has already been determined that the only chance there is to btain legislation of this character, in view of the very brief time of the session remaining and the great pressure of routine business, is for the senate and House leaders to unite upon the pasis of a measure, have it put into form by the Judiciary Committee of the House, passed in that body under a special rule, reported to the Senate and disposed of there as a party measure after a brief debate and without amendment

The President having officially announced he anti-trust platform of the Administraion to be the recommendations made by Attorney-General Knox in his letter addressed to Senator Hoar and Representative Littlefield, the Republicans in Congress will, as a preliminary step, try to ascertain how much modification of the Attorney-General's suggestions would be necessary to make them acceptable. It goes without saying that all of his recommendations cannot be adopted by Congress, and yet some of them would meet with no serious objection in ither house.

As for the bill of Senator Hoar, it has practically no advocates or defenders, and the various propositions that have been considered by the House Judiciary Committee are equally unsupported.

Any bill that is to be passed at this seesion must be free from features that would be seriously antagonized by Senators and Representatives, and the leaders who are endeavoring to get an advance agreement on a compromise measure realize the difficulties of their task. They are not altogether hopeless, however, that a bill of such a character can be framed and that t will be acceptable to the Administration as being a step in what the President and the Attorney-General regard as the right direction.
